In Memoriam

IN MEMORIAM

In memory of our wife and mother, Mrs. G. B. Buchanan, who died one year ago, January 21, 1956.

One year has passed since
God called you home,
To be with Him in heaven,
Around His snow-white throne.
Your memory to us is a keepsake,
With which we shall never part.
Though God has you in His keeping,
We still have you in our hearts.
Someday we hope to meet you,
Someday, we know not when,
To clasp your hand in a better land,
Never to part again.
—Sadly missed by
Husband and Children.

IN MEMORIAM

In memory of wife and mother, Mrs. Archie A. LeGrand, who departed this life four years ago, January 8, 1953.

No one knows how much we miss you,
No one knows the bitter pain,
We have suffered since we lost you,
Life has not been the same.

In our hearts your memory lingers
Sweetly, tender, fond and true,
There is not a day,
We do not think of you.
—Sadly missed by
Husband and Children.
(1tp)

IN MEMORIAM

In loving memory of my husband and our father, Elam O. Jarrells, who departed this life 7 years ago, January 29.
It was on a Sunday morning,
I will never forget the day,
When an angel came and took
My husband away.
The golden gates were open,
A gentle voice said, Come,
And with farewells unspoken,
He gently entered home.
Though God has him in His keeping,
We still have him in our hearts.
—Sadly missed by his wife and children.

MACHINERY MANAGEMENT IMPORTANT FACTOR TODAY

If you're buying farm machinery as a business investment, be sure it is "cost saving," as well as "labor saving."

That's the tip from R. Lee Chambliss, Jr., associate agricultural economist at VPI. He says the mere fact of labor saving is not necessarily profitable or economical, because on many farms a certain tool may cost more money than you can expect to save.

Of course, the farmer may want the piece of equipment regardless of economy, but then it becomes a luxury.

The annual cost of a piece of equipment consists mainly of depreciation, including obsolescence, interest on the average amount of investment in it, housing for it, repairs, and the direct cost of operation. To pay for this annual cost, there must either be a cash saving in the hired labor bill, or the labor saved must be used in some other productive way.

The farmer who keeps investment in power and machinery and buildings at a minimum, consistent with good farming practices and the efficient use of labor, will have higher earnings. Too little investment in equipment may result in too high labor costs, but too much investment may mean excessive overhead costs, such as charges for depreciation and interest.

QUESTIONS OF THE WEEK

(Editor's note: Here are the questions asked most frequently by Virginia farmers during the past week, as reported by county agricultural agents. Staff members of the VPI Agricultural Extension Service and/or Experiment Station supply the answers.)

Q. What varieties of winter oats are recommended in Virginia?

A. In the coastal plains, Arlington, Atlantic, Lee Cold Proof, Fulgrain, Fulwood, and Victorgrain. In Piedmont Virginia, Arlington, Atlantic, Lee Cold Proof, Forkedeer, (north of James River only), and Bronco (north of James River; West of the Blue Ridge, Arlington (Lee County and low elevations of Scott), Atlantic, Forkedeer, Lee Cold Proof, and Bronco.

Q. How close is it safe to graze barley?

A. Don't graze it too close. Leave enough blades to provide protection through the winter — 2 or 3 inches.

Q.- Which is more advisable, post-emergence or pre - emergence spraying of corn for weeds?

A.- It depends on your weed problem. To control grasses in corn plantings, the pre-emergence spray is important. For late season weeds, use the post-emergence spray.

Q. Can I successfully spot seed alfalfa where poor stands were obtained?

A.- Yes. Make a good seedbed on the bare spots and reseed. It might be a good idea to take a soil sample to gauge your lime and fertilizer needs. If you get less than 40 per cent of a stand, you'd better start all over.

Junior Chamber of Commerce Sets Goal of Every Member Taking Salk Vaccine

The Appomattox County Ju... of Commerce has decided to set a good example in the matter of taking the Salk Polio Va...ne. The group has set a goal of 100% of its members taking the shots. At a recent Jaycee meeting the Salk vaccine was given to members by Dr. Stanley Boyce. In the picture above, Bobby Mitchell, Bill James...son, Ed Cawthorne, Dick Wingfield, Monk Carter, Frank McCann, Billy Conner, and other Jaycees are lined up for their part in this campaign.

Mothers March On Polio Here Tonight at 7:00

This evening one of your neighbors will visit your home to explain how you can join the 1957 March of Dimes and help finish the polio job. This neighbor of yours is called a marching mother and she is one of the unsung heroines in the fight against polio.

Chances are that she - or another person like her - has been coming to your door for some years. And over the years you have welcomed her with a lighted porchlight and a generous contribution.

In past years you gave because you knew that the March of Dimes had pledged that no polio victim would have to go without needed care for lack of funds. And because you knew that something was being done about a polio vaccine. The funds backing this vital research work were gathered by marching mothers and other workers all over the country.

Now that the Salk vaccine has been available, the whole fight on polio has assumed added impetus, and hope for the final conquest of polio is at a peak. However, there are many victims still under care, and this year the March of Dimes greatly needs contributions to finish the fight. Support for the annual Mothers' March is asked of all Appomattox people.

DO - DE PGOGRAM AT ASSEMBLY

The Distributive Education Club and the Diversified Occupations Club held an assembly program at Appomattox High School on Tuesday morning. James Almond opened the program with devotionals.

Mrs. Joan Smith, Coordinator, introduced the speakers. Mr. Ivey Holland spoke on "The Need For Training and the Opportunities in Distribution." Mr. Holland pointed out that today there is a great need for "selling," rather than order taking. Mr. John Grinels stated in his talk, "The Needs for Training and Opportunities in Trades and Industry" that a few years ago a man was a mechanic if he knew where the screws and bolts belonged in an automobile, but today he must work with as many instruments as a doctor. Mr. Kenneth Christopher's topic was, "How the Work-Training Program Fits Into the High School Curriculum." With the use of a balance, he demonstrated the seven cardinal principles of education.

The second part of the program was conducted by the students in D. E. and D. O. The D. E. students gave a skit entitled, "DE Dragnet," followed by John Ivey Holland, explaining the DE program. Rose Fuller and Jean Arrington gave a demonstration on poor selling techniques. Jimmy Harper and John Pankey gave a demonstration on proper selling as they had learned in DE class and through on-the-job training.

Robert Pankey explained the DO program. Since the DO students study employer - employee relations, they also demonstrated some class room work by giving interviews for a job, both poor and proper. Rosa Lee Emmitt and Gene Davis showed how not to apply for a job, and Virginia Maxwell and Christine Irby demonstrated the proper procedure.

Future Business Leaders

The Future Business Leaders of America met at A. H. S. on January 4, 1957. In the absence of the president, Jane Moore called the meeting to order. Some of the F. F. A. boys demonstrated rules of parliamentary procedure. Those who came were Frank Inge, Fred Caldwell, Floyd Jamerson, Ralph Inge, Luther Reynolds, and James Carter.

The most interesting subjects were discussed, illustrating the different rules of procedure. We, of the F. B. L. A. salute the F. F. A. in appreciation for their help.

The Special Gifts division of the March of Dimes drive in Appomattox County, has reported excellent results to date, and this phase of the annual drive is about concluded.

Irby To Run For Mayor

Joe T. Irby announced today that he will be a candidate for the office of Mayor of Appomattox, subject to the June town election. Postmaster's Day Information cited

A recent proclamation by Postmaster General Arthur E. Summerfield, designating Benjamin Franklin's birthday, January 17, as Postmaster's Day calls to mind the fact that America has had many distinguished persons who were postmasters at one time or another.

Everybody knows about Benjamin Franklin, of course, who was 'not only our first Postmaster General under the Continental Congress, but was a Colonial Postmaster back as early as 1737, when he was about 31 years of age.

Other examples were William Brewster of the Pilgram Fathers, who had been an innkeeper and a postmaster in Old England some years before he came over on the Mayflower in 1620, and Abe Lincoln, of course, who, as many people know, was the affable postmaster of New Salem, Mass., back in 1853.

So, the postmasters have had some pretty high standards of conduct established for them over the years.

Postmasters have always been very close to the people and certainly they are among the best known public servants.

It is expected this year that more than 58 billion pieces of mail will be handled through the post offices of America — more than 300 pieces of mail for every man, woman and child in America, and more mail than the rest of the world combined.

In the olden days — until well along in the last century and even later in a good many places — there was no such thing as street and route addresses for most people.

Whenever anybody sent them a letter they addressed it something like this:

"To Tom Smith
Who Lives in the Blue House
Next to the Red Barn
Near to the Hog Wallow where
Tom Nesbitt's Sow, Sussy
Got Drowned last Year."

Well, today, we do have a regular address for everybody - but a lot of people still continue to address mail almost as badly as that.

For example, some people will confindently plunk a letter in the mail box addressed to "John Smith, City," or some such vague address, and expect the postmaster to deliver it.

Cooperation with the postmaster could help to see to it that the letter that is lost for improper marking is not your own.

Play safe—drive carefully.
